Agape Community, Hardwick

with our “Inspirational Green Community” Award. The Agape Community is an ecologically sound, sustainable, intentional community. This lay Catholic community has put photovoltaic (PV) solar panels on its Brigit House, which is made of straw bale and has a compost toilet. In addition, the community has begun an oil boycott with the purchase of a vegetarian car – a small diesel car that runs on vegetable oil from soybeans. Thank you, Agape Community, for setting a powerful example of environmental stewardship for the community of faith.
